

"Golfers Driven to Succeed for Charity", The Courier, Thursday 24th May 2012

A big-hearted foursome are teeing up the ultimate test of their stamina and golfing skills. The group of Perth businessmen are preparing for a mammoth golf challenge in aid of three local charities. Taking in all of Perth's local golf courses, the Carbon City of Perth Golf Challenge will include five courses back-to-back, leaving the gents with a staggering 90-hole challenge to complete in just one day.

Mark Christie, Sandy Fyfe, Keith Scobbie and Peter Stewart, will start at Murrayshall on June 22 at 4.30am and go on to cover Lynedoch, King James VI and the North Inch before a grand finale at Craigie Hill. The team hopes to raise over £2,000 for local charities dear to their hearts, including PKAVS, CHAS and Cornhill Macmillan hospice. The challenge has already attracted sponsorship from Carbon – a leading firm of independent financial advisers with offices in Perth, Edinburgh and Aberdeen.

Peter Stewart said: what makes this more of a challenge is that we're not the best golfers in the world, meaning more time will be spent zigzagging our way from tee to green over the day, adding to the distance covered. "Hopefully our stubbornness and determination will get us through. "We'd be grateful for any sponsorship the people of Perth and Kinross can give towards these deserving local charities."

Mark Christie, Corporate Director of Carbon commented: "As a local business, we're proud to support the team to raise funds for such good causes."
