

New year, new job? Six firms on the hunt for a paraplanner

Shireen Fernie – Carbon Financial Partners

Position available:

At Carbon it is not about which positions we have available, we can always make space for who we view as the right calibre person, whatever the role may be. Our focus is on getting the right people into the business and building on their strengths. Anyone interested in finding out more about working with us, should send their CV to me.

Qualifications required?

Our minimum entry level for trainee paraplanner is the diploma.

Employed/self-employed?

All our staff are employed, with generous benefits packages and bonuses paid for going the extra mile.

Why is your firm different?

Carbon provides every employee with support, training, education and the opportunity to develop personally and professionally. We work as a team.

We are passionate about working with people to find their strengths and then developing this talent to benefit the individual and the business.

We pay all staff additional reward for discretionary effort. We like to work hard but also to have fun.

What is your plan for 2013 – how does this hire tie into your plans?

We will continue to look for and create opportunity. Our preference is to grow the business organically by finding good people who understand our philosophy and can fit in to our culture. Since we launched Carbon in 2011 we have grown the number of staff from 27 to the current 34. We believe we are well positioned for the retail distribution review and the opportunities this may bring.
